THE NEW SUV FOR 2005!

by Star Hughes

The new 2005 SUV everyone is hearing about is sports utility vaulting. Vaulting! What is it? Horsepower plus rider balance and agility and the security to take you anywhere, anytime, in and out of the arena and off the beaten path.

Are you struggling to improve your riding, but can't seem to get it together? Is your horse's movement all it can be? Do you fervently believe that a different saddle will solve your position problem? Is your trainer at a loss for words that will help you "get" it? Then, Sports Utility Vaulting may be just what you're missing!

The top European riders, especially, the Germans, assume that everyone knows about vaulting, because it is the foundation for the secure, effective, correct seat necessary to good riding. In Germany, for example, there are thousands upon thousands of vaulters, with many clubs having a hundred or more members. Vaulting is a very popular sport for groups of—and here's the rub—children!

American horsewoman Elizabeth Searle first brought the competitive sport of vaulting here from Germany in the late 1960's. It flourished in California but languished in the East and other parts of the USA where more familiar riding styles predominated. If you were a lucky young rider back East, you might have learned a little vaulting through Pony Club, as a means to improve your seat and balance for jumping.

In most parts of the USA, few people outside of the AVA (American Vaulting Association) ranks have seen vaulting, let alone, had the opportunity to try it. The vaulting folks have seen appears to be a scary form of acrobatic trick riding, performed by muscular young people, on a horse on a longeline. Quite entertaining to watch, but impractical in real riding life. Enter now, "sports utility vaulting", as AVA president Nancy-Stevens Brown describes it. Viva! Vaulting for the rest of us!

Vaulting isn't just for kids anymore. Adults in the USA can now join the fun and find what basics they have been missing in developing their riding skills. Sports Utility Vaulting is what its name implies, a usable and useful

THOUGHTS

from the President

by Susan Selby

As showing season is nearing with the first recognized show being held at the Colorado Horse Park in Parker on March 19 & 20th, our rider pictured here is set and ready for showing. Let's take a closer look at what's going on:

The Dressage Queens are in a buzz and have filed a complaint with management that all lower level riders must wear a helmet and looking at her age doesn't she need a chin strap, not sure, but we'll include that in our complaint.

Veronica Holt, Technical Delegate, has asked the ring steward to be sure and check a competitor's horse's bit as they leave the show ring, as she has noticed his ears have been pinned back the whole time. Can she (the ring steward) really do that?

The pony club mothers have requested a measurement of a rider's pony, as they are sure he is too tall for the pony class. Can that be? Is there such a thing as a pony being too tall?

In the sweltering heat of summer, a rider has opted to take her jacket off. "What nerve!" say the other competitors, waiting for the judge to blow the whistle and excuse her from the class, and if not for lack of a jacket then surely for that bright red thing on her neck! After all, RED is not a conservative color and will certainly be cause for elimination.

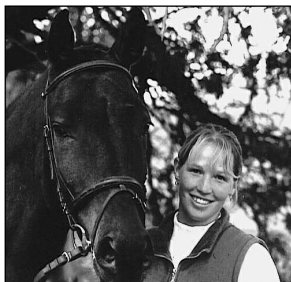

Do we really know the rules or do we think we know the rules? I would encourage you to read them for yourself, as many have changed. You can download them from rmds.org or usef.com.

Happy Showing by the Rules,

Susan Selby

P.S. Check out Veronica Holt's summary of new rules and some changes to existing ones on page 25.

The Latest Scoop From The Editor's Stall

A BEHIND THE SCENES LOOK AT THE CENTAUR

I want to take a moment and first thank everyone for submitting stories and ideas. With all the enthusiasm, I thought I would take this opportunity, as Centaur editor to share a behind the scenes look at who is involved in the publication process.

The Centaur has a very small staff and the backbone of the publication is Beverly Swanson. Beverly is practically a native Coloradoan having moved here when she was two and a half. She has also spent time in many different countries allowing her to have some wonderful stories of riding horses all over the world. Beverly is a Graphics and Communications Director for a K-12 private school and runs her own design and computer marketing business. In her spare time, Beverly works on the graphic design and layout on the Centaur, as well as, selling ads, sifting through and begging for content and keeping the calendar, judges list, and other RMDS official news up-to-date. She also owns two thoroughbred mares and trains with K.C. Perkins-Kyle. Like the rest of us, dressage is a passion for Beverly making her commitment to the Centaur enjoyable. Beverly put it best by saying, "I really enjoy doing the Centaur. It keeps me in touch with a lot of people and has made me feel like a member of the dressage community." There are drawbacks to having this job, one of which is not rushing to her mailbox to read the latest copy as she knows the publication inside and out a month ahead of time. If you run into Beverly, please thank her for her time and commitment.

I have the pleasure of introducing a new addition to our staff. I feel very fortunate to say the Centaur now has a regular columnist. Claudia Barkmeier will be in charge of the monthly barn and rider profile column. Her column will provide us at the Centaur the opportunity to get to know our RMDS members on a more personal level. Any suggestions of barns or riders to profile can be sent to Claudia via my e-mail.

The Centaur staff welcomes additional monthly columnists or feature writers. Please be in touch if you are interested in submitting work to the Centaur.

Best regards,

Kathleen

P.S. I apologize as my e-mail address was incorrectly printed in the last edition. My correct e-mail address is: kathleendonnelly20@hotmail.com.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mom (Kathleen),

Thank you for all your wonderful stories. I am especially enjoying the nutrition articles. Gretchen's nutrition program is great! I only have one thing to add. I feel carrots and apples should be added to the daily diet. I also love peppermints, but I guess sugar can be hard on the teeth. However, I still feel every owner should add all the above items to their horse's daily diets.

Your loving horse,
Corbet

P.S. I like the picture of us together in your column.

Dear Centaur Editor,

Thanks for all the great stories! I never read the Centaur before this, but now look forward to receiving it in the mail. I even read it before my AARP Newsletter. Your mother and I fight over it to see who gets to read it first. Keep up the good work!

Sincerely,
Dad

2005 Clinics and Seminars

Mar 2005: Show Prep Seminar Location: High Prairie

This clinic is to be held in conjunction with the Winter Wake Up Show at Colorado Horse Park. We have several clinicians who will work together to share their experiences in grooming at top National and International competitions, explaining the techniques used to keep top competitive horses looking their best in the show ring. This seminar is also intended to include a fashion show and we are looking for a tack store willing to participate!

May 2005: RMDS Education Symposium: May 7, 8, 2005 and Clinic May 9, 10, 2005: Betsy Steiner, based on her new book "A Gymnastic Riding System using Mind, Body and Spirit"

This will be a two day seminar, discussing the Mind/Body/Spirit for both rider and horse at each step of the training scale. It should include lecture as well as demo riders. The clinic will build on the seminar as Betsy works with each horse and rider combination, plus possibility of demonstration of Equilates for proper body control and fitness is under discussion. Dates confirmed.

October 14-16, 2005:

Kathy Connelly and Toine Hoefs

Possible location: Canon Ridge Farm, Castle Rock

This clinic will be with Toine Hoefs, a KWPN Breed judge, who has judged at many high profile shows, including the Sporthorse and Breed Show at Dressage at Devon, 2003, AND Kathy Connelly! We are planning a 3 day clinic, where on the first day, Mr. Hoefs will do a conformation clinic, evaluating each horse from the perspective of dressage or jumping, discussing what will be easy/difficult for each specific horse. Then on the second day the horses will be ridden and we'll see if Mr. Hoefs evaluation is correct regarding the under saddle work. Both Toine and Kathy will then offer suggestions as to specific exercises to help the horses in their work! On the third day Kathy will take this into clinics with horse/rider pairs.

DON'T FORGET THE USDF INSTRUCTOR'S WORKSHOPS!

The Instructor Workshops are open to everyone, and we can all learn from these clinics whether we are instructing or not.

EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES NEED YOUR SUPPORT!

SUV ...from cover

method for people who just want to be able to ride the "normal" way, better, and more confidently.

Before you choke-- "NO WAY I'LL EVER DO THAT!"-- relax! Grown-ups aren't required to leap onto the horse at full canter. But, being able to mount easily and gracefully from the mounting block, or at least, get a leg up without embarrassing yourself, is a skill much desired. Imagine actually being able to feel the horse's movement and go with him smoothly at sitting trot! Imagine enjoying cantering, feeling that rush of wind in your face, without worrying that your horse is getting ready to run away with you....

Sports Utility Vaulting. Get back to basics. Improve your core. Develop that deep seat. Sing and swing. Do a little dance. Fall in love again with riding horses, not fall off! Amaze and delight yourself, your horse, and your trainer when your left leg actually obeys the aids for leg yield. Vaulting can change your riding and your life for the better. Ready, Set, GO!

Take a test ride featuring the new SUV. In the Parker area, see Star Hughes, at EquesTraining, #720-851-4925. Ask for the Centaur Seat special. Call Noel Martonovich, Little Spring Ranch, Golden, #303-277-0356, for a location nearest you!

COMING ATTRACTIONS:

Congratulations go to CSU, Fort Collins, for their new coed college vaulting program, which begins this coming semester on January 26, 2005.

Star Hughes, creator of the Centaur Seat riding program for adults, combining vaulting, yoga, and pilates in work and play on horseback, will be lecturing on her unique method of training at the HORSE EXPO in Denver, March 11-13, 2005.

The 2005 Vaulting National Championships will be held in Denver this coming August!

Stay tuned....

2005 RMDS Education Symposium and Clinic with Betsy Steiner at Pheasant Ridge Farm, Boulder May 7, 8 and 9, 2005

This clinic will be based on Betsy's new book "A Gymnastic Riding System using Mind, Body and Spirit." This will be a three day seminar/clinic, discussing the Mind/Body/Spirit for both rider and horse at each step of the training scale. It will include lecture and demo riders. The clinic will build on the seminar as Betsy works with each horse and rider combination to identify where they are in each dimension. She can then provide guidance and exercises to help the horse and rider individually, and as a pair, move forward.

Demo riders for seminar ride free, Clinic riders are first come, first served.
